The Australian Association of Special Education Inc (AASE) aims to assist the preparation and support of all educators to enable provision of quality education for students with special education needs through the dissemination of information about quality programs and practices. Special Education Perspectives publishes articles to inform practicing teachers in regular and special education settings and others interested in the education of students with special needs.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions to Special Education Perspectives may refer to any aspect of special education practice, policy, or research. They may take the form of position papers, critical reviews of literature, brief reports of action research, or empirical studies. In line with the practical focus of the journal, papers that provide practitioners with research-based support and strategies are especially welcome. Potential authors may like to look at Teaching Exceptional Children as a model for this type of submission.

2. The journal has three sections: (A) Practically Speaking, containing papers that have received editorial review; (B) Refereed papers (see 5.); and (C) Positively Influencing.

3. Please send your paper electronically as an email attachment to: David Paterson
   email: dpaters1@une.edu.au with a covering email listing the names of all authors, contact details for correspondence, and a statement to indicate that the paper has not been published elsewhere, nor is the paper currently under review elsewhere.

4. It is imperative that prospective authors follow the conventions of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) Sixth Edition when preparing papers. Authors are advised to consult published referencing guides or previous journal issues in which APA guidelines are followed. The manuscript should be wordprocessed on A4 size. Italics should be used for sources in the reference list rather than underlining. An abstract of approximately 100 words should be included. All figures, graphics and tables should be high-quality camera-ready copy, in black and white, presented on separate sheets with a descriptive caption. The location of each figure, graphic or table should be indicated in the body of the paper. We cannot guarantee the reproduction clarity of colour figures, graphics or tables.

5. All papers submitted to the refereed section of the journal follow a double-blind review process. A minimum of two members of the editorial committee (or other invited experts) provide feedback on the papers and monitor revisions as appropriate. It is therefore important that you do not identify yourself in the body of the paper.

Advertising Policy

Special Education Perspectives accepts advertisements for products or services of interest to educators, special educators, families and caregivers of children with special education needs and others with an interest in special education.

Disclaimer: The Australian Association of Special Education does not endorse any of the products or services advertised. The Editor has the discretion to accept or refuse advertisements and may request changes to advertisements before accepting them for publication.
